

Air Cooled Facts

If a furnace required a high degree of heat to accomplish a given result, would you put a water-jacket around the furnace to cool it? Then why do it in an automobile?

A gasoline engine makes power by turning gasoline into heat. The hotter you can run it without igniting your lubricant, the greater efficiency you get out of your fuel.

The Franklin air-cooled motor normally runs at about 350 degrees, hot enough to get high efficiency out of the gasoline but cool enough to be well below the burning point of oil.

A water-cooled motor does not normally get hotter than 212 degrees; at that temperature the water boils away and there is trouble. Hence all water-cooled motors are under a heavy handicap, because they work at about 138 degrees below the point of maximum efficiency.

The Franklin motor car gets more actual going-power out of a gallon of gasoline than any other automobile. That means low running expense.

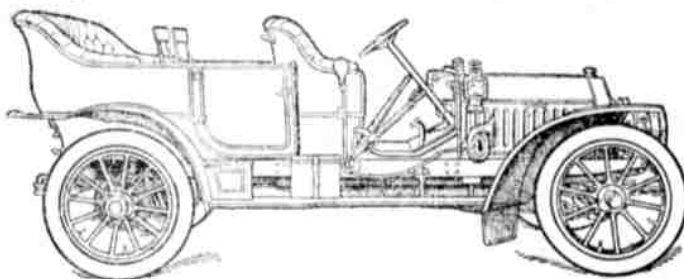

Franklin light-weight means tire-economy. Franklin construction—laminated wood frame and nickel steel parts—means repair-economy. Combine all these advantages and you have the motor car that you can afford to own.

Franklin Air-Cooled cars are run with the greatest of success for months in summer in New York, Chicago and other places where the thermometer goes higher than it ever does in these Islands, and they have proved the right car for the hottest as well as the coldest localities.

Ask the Honolulu users of Air-Cooled Franklins whether they keep cool on the hottest days or not. They will tell you.

Forrest Smithson Makes World's Record In Hurdles

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 10.—Smithson of Portland made the 10-yard hurdle run today in 8 4-5 seconds, breaking the record.

Forrest Smithson, who broke the world's record for the seventy-yard dash by going the distance in eight and four-fifths seconds, has a number of other records to his credit. He is 22 years old and has been going to various colleges on the Coast since he was 17. He has been an athlete since a little fellow. He first came to notice when he was running for the Portland High School. He beat all interscholastic athletes in the 440 yards dash in the first annual high school meet, and also came out first in the high jump. At this time he had never had any training whatever, but his time in the 440 was so fast for a youngster that some old runners in Portland took it upon themselves to develop his speed by a little training. Soon afterwards he entered the University of Oregon, and became known among the athletes of the Coast as a hard man to beat. While in the middle of the track season during his second year at Oregon, he had a rumour with the college authorities and jumped over to the rival institution, the Oregon Agricultural College. He ran in one meet for them and carried off several firsts, practically winning the meet for O. A. C. The meet was protested, however, and finally thrown out, on account of the inter-collegiate rule which prevents an athlete from competing for a college unless he has been a regular registered student for a certain number of months. Notwithstanding this fact, Smithson gained a great amount of running experience, for he was under the direct tutelage of "Dad" Moulton, one of the most famous trainers in the States. Moulton taught him a great many tricks of the game, and when the time for the following season came, he was in condition to meet the best men of the Northwest. Dan Kelly was just budding out in inter-collegiate affairs at this time, though he came to college with a great scholastic record. Smithson and Kelly first met in the great indoor coliseum at Columbia University, Portland. The 220-yard dash resolved itself into a duel between these two men for the first heat was won by Smithson, the second by Kelly, and the finals were also won by the red-headed Irish wonder in what was undoubtedly the prettiest race ever seen in the Oregon metropolis. Smithson took several prizes at the Athletic Carnival at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, meeting some of the best men of the country. He has a long swinging, natural stride, and runs in perfect form. For a number of years past it has been said that the only thing that kept Smithson from becoming a world-beater was the lack of a final, grand, sprint at the finish of a short distance race. It would appear, however, from the cablegrams lately, that he has acquired the "dash spurt". At any rate, it is certain that he is going some at the athletic games in New York. Smithson fights hard in every race. Kelly is a natural-born runner, but he hasn't the grit and "bull-dog" fighting spirit that Forrest Smithson has. They are both competing at the games now going on in New York. Smithson's favorite run has always been the hurdles.

LOOKED LIKED WAR, CHINA VS. JAPAN

International Baseball
Dispute Ends
O. K.

The Riverside Junior Baseball League held its regular meeting last night at the offices of its president, H. Keleko, 1000 Building. Among those present were: Chas. Abe, Lani, A. Riley, M. Correa, Sam Hop, Geo. Ho Lim, H. English, Geo. A. Davis, W. Tin Chong and President B. Keleko.

The meeting was a lively one all through the evening, as the hearing of the protest of the Asahi A. C. against the Chinese Alohas, Jr., on the game played last Sunday, caused a good deal of warm debate. The Nippons claimed that they are entitled to the game, notwithstanding the fact that the Chinese defeated them, as the time scheduled to play was 10:30 a. m. and the "Sons from the Dragon Flag" didn't put in an appearance until 11:45. On the other side, the Chinese claim that the official umpire was not on hand at the time and no one declared the game forfeited to the Japanese. For some time it looks as if there was a war between Japan and China at the meeting, but Bernard Keleko acted as Solomon in this case and decided that the game be replayed again.

"I wish to state, Mr. Chairman," said Abe, who was representing the Asahi, "that I have something else to ask for at this meeting outside of this protest and this is that the person who inserted in the morning paper the article stating that the losing team was making the usual kicks on the umpire's decisions, must apologize for it, as a matter of fact we never did complain on the umpire being unfair during the game. Bernard was puzzled for a moment when this statement was made. "Let the person who published that article apologize to the Asahi Club," the chair ordered. Attorney Davis, who took quite an interest in the debate, stated that he enjoyed the meeting and would like to attend another.

HUMOROUS LETTERS FROM YOUNG STARS

"I have never read anything so amusing," said Charles Comiskey before leaving Chicago, "as some of the letters which were written me by the young players whom the Sox drafted from the minor leagues. Some of the letters had tinge of romance mixed in, and others were almost pathetic, but the majority were really delightful."

"Every one of the youngsters who were named as drafted by me wrote me at least one letter. Most of them averaged three, and every boy in the lot did his best to explain what a star he was, what a wonder he would infallibly be, and what a loss it would be to the Sox if he were permitted to escape. Some of them wrote so touchingly that I was almost tempted to let appreciation dictate to judgment, but what could I do?"

"I won't give out the names of the boys—that wouldn't be quite right—but here are a few excerpts from the things they wrote me:

"Dear Col. Comiskey: You don't remember my name, perhaps, but my uncle was —, who played six years for you on the St. Louis Browns. He says I have the makings of a better ballplayer than he ever dared to be. I only hit 247 last season, but that was because I was sick clear up to July. Give me a fair tryout, and you won't be sorry, because which it will be a great favor to my uncle."

"Esteemed President: You will regret it if you let me go back to the minors without a good trial. I am a free, natural hitter, fast in getting down to first, and stole fifty-nine bases last season. Under your teaching, I would improve 300 per cent., because I regard you as the best leader of players in the world. I have always been anxious to play with the Sox, and hope you will give me a fair show."

"Dr. Mr. Comiskey: I am thankful to you for drafting me, and will work for you for $150 a month if you will give me the chance. It's this way with me: I am going with a girl down here and she doesn't like baseball—says it is a poor business. She told me that if I was ever a world's champion she would marry me, but not otherwise. I know the Sox will win out this year, and then I would get my chance. Won't you help me out?"

"Dear Sir: I am not much on spelling, but I can hit like —. Last

SECURE SEATS FOR FRIDAY

Competent men have said that next to visiting the famous places in the world is to hear Burton Holmes tell of them. Next to seeing the things which daily occur is to have Burton throw his moving pictures on the screen. The public will have an opportunity to see both Thursday and Friday evenings. The house is sold for Thursday, or is so nearly sold that it is not possible to secure two seats together anywhere. Friday night the exhibition will be almost identical with that of Thursday and the seats for that evening's entertainment are on sale. So great is the desire to see the pictures and hear Mr. Holmes that many persons who have secured seats for the first night have left the money to pay for seats for the second.

There is to be a full orchestra on both evenings, musicians selected for their familiarity with stage work, so there will not be a dull moment during the evening. Those who were unable to get seats for Thursday should not fail to get them for Friday and are urged to get them today as not to get left again. One gentleman has already ordered eighteen. They may be had at Wall, Nichols Co., Ltd., at 25, 50 and 75 cents.

HARMON IS NOT GUILTY.

The jury in the case of the Territory against Elder Harmon of the Mormon church, charged with subornation of perjury, took but five minutes to bring in a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon. The arguments to the jury were commenced yesterday afternoon after the regular recess and little time was taken. W. T. Rawlins represented the United States and W. A. Kinney the accused.
